

Reciprocity Is Urged by New Canadian Party

Freer Trade With the United States To Be Favored by Newest Factor in Politics in the Dominion

Farmers Are Organized

Representatives From Four Provinces Summoned to an Agricultural Parley

Ottawa, Canada, Nov. 22.—Reciprocity with the United States along the line of the agreement of 1911, which Canadians generally turned down but which the agricultural interests of the Canadian Northwest favored strongly, is one of the planks in the newly formed Farmers' Federal party.

This party and what it aims at doing —what it almost to a certainty will do at the next Federal election—are of more than passing interest to Americans, as it means strong prospects of a new political regime which will favor much freer trade relations with the United States. It would seem that one of the outstanding results of the war is a determination of the agricultural interests, which form from 60 to 65 per cent of Canada's population, to quit "splitting" the farmers' vote as they have done for the past fifty years or more and to support a farmers' party.

In Four Provinces

Already in four of the nine provinces—Albert, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario—the nucleus of the new Dominion Farmers' party has been formed. Their platform is much more advanced than any they have yet announced, and among the more outstanding proposals embraces the following:

Immediate all-round reduction of the tariff, coupled with an increase in the British preference to 50 per cent. Complete free trade between Canada and Great Britain in five years. Reciprocity with the United States along the lines of the agreement proposed in 1911. Abolition of all food taxes. Enforced publication by corporations engaged in the manufacture of protected products of annual statements of earnings.

Public hearings before a special committee of Parliament of all claims for tariff protection. Abolition of the Senate. Prohibition of the importation or manufacture of intoxicants. The abolition of titles. Direct taxes on the unimproved value of all lands, including natural resources. A sharply graduated income tax. The abolition of patronage. Proportional representation. The initiative, referendum and recall. The adoption of provincial franchise laws for Federal elections. Equality of the sexes in voting and in holding seats in Parliament and in the legislatures. Special insurance for soldiers who become undesirable risks. Laws requiring owners of land held idle to fix a selling price. Co-operative marketing.

Farmers Supporting It

Along all lines—with the possible exception of public ownership of railways—this Farmers' platform is far in advance of present political platforms, and a significant feature is that it is being supported generally by farmers who are determined to elect men who will put these reforms on the statute books. In Ontario, as in the West, those resolutions adopted by the Council of Agriculture are supported and constitute not only a platform to be carried out to the letter should farmers be elected, but one that to a large extent has the support of the labor element in Canada.

The present administration has two or three years to run, and in time public opinion may change. At present, however, indications point to more new regimes in various provincial administrations, and that when a Dominion contest is announced there will be three-cornered contests (probably Farmers' party, Liberal and either Conservative or Unionist) with those representing agricultural interests backing the one candidate, as they did lately in Canada's premier province.

Representatives Summoned

What is known as the Canadian

Council of Agriculture has summoned representatives from four of the provinces to attend a conference to coordinate efforts to elect members to the Federal House. One important suggestion being made is that the present Great Lakes shipping should be under the Dominion Railway Commission. Another matter that will be discussed at the conference is by intimation to tell the present government what should be done to insure an efficient and vigorous administration of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific railways.

In Canada the lieutenant governors are figureheads rather than dignitaries with real power, as is the state of the various governors in states across the line; yet eighteen states with 45,000,000 of a population have spent less in the construction of all their governors' residences than the Province of Ontario, with its population of about 3,000,000, and in eighteen other states Americans do not provide their governors with residences.

Premier Drury is out strongly for saving money and farmers have been talking long about government extravagance. The Canadian press is now asking will Premier Drury do with the Lieutenant Governor's palatial Toronto home, which cost the province $1,000,000 not so many years ago and was erected at the suggestion of the late Sir J. M. Whitney, a former Premier?

The building is a veritable palace, the marble in the main hall-way costing $250,000; the site $148,000; the heating plant $50,000; and the fixtures being most sumptuous.

Special Correspondence

FREDERICTON, N. B., Nov. 22.—The United Farmers of New Brunswick are organizing and will run candidates in every riding in this province (New Brunswick) at the next provincial election. They anticipate a quick governmental appeal to the electorate before they have much time to organize, but say this will make no difference.

13,240,300 People In U. S. Have Money In National Banks

This Is an Increase of 127 Per Cent in Nine Years, but Increase of Only 119 Per Cent in Total Amount

New York Tribune Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—One of every six of the total population of the United States has kept an account in a national bank, the official returns of June 30, 1919, just compiled by the Comptroller of the Treasury reveals, and during the fiscal year ended October 31, 1919, not one of the 13,240,300 depositors lost a dollar from bank failure.

On June 30, 1919, the number of individual accounts of our nearly 8,000 national banks was 13,240,300, as shown above. This compares with a total of 7,690,468 individual accounts on June 30, 1910, the increase in the number of depositors being 16,549,832, or 147 per cent in nine years.

In the same period the total deposits (individual and bank) have grown from $7,257,037,747 on June 30, 1910, to $15,924,885,000 on June 30, 1919, an increase of 119 per cent.

The average balance to the credit of each individual depositor (not including balances of banks) on June 30, 1919, was $61.92, which compares with an average deposit of $68.17 on June 30, 1910.

Pennsylvania leads all the other States with 2,398,296 national bank deposit accounts. New York comes second, with 1,972,207; the next in order are Illinois, 1,059,691, and Ohio, with 1,037,359.

Of the total number of national bank accounts in the country, 19,079,188 were demand deposit accounts on which no interest was allowed, and 236,672 were time accounts on which interest was not allowed. There were also 1,149,861 demand accounts on which interest was allowed and 6,769,179 time deposit accounts bearing interest.

New York leads the cities in the number of individual deposits, Chicago has 1,923,906, St. Louis, 1,211,001; Washington, 1,193,548; Atlanta, 1,175,091; Pittsburgh, 1,060,126; and Philadelphia, 1,037,275.

The following list gives, in order of total of individual deposits, the names of the twenty-five cities whose national banks held the largest deposits and shows in the case of each city the average amount to the credit of each individual depositor:

New York	1,923,906	Cleveland	1,037,275
Chicago	1,211,001	Baltimore	1,037,275
Philadelphia	1,037,275	Kansas City	1,037,275
Boston	1,037,275	Los Angeles	1,037,275
Pittsburgh	1,037,275	Detroit	1,037,275
San Francisco	1,037,275	Minneapolis	1,037,275
St. Louis	1,037,275	St. Paul	1,037,275
Spokane	1,037,275	Washington	1,037,275
Portland	1,037,275	Denver	1,037,275
Cincinnati	1,037,275	Omaha	1,037,275
St. Paul	1,037,275	Atlanta	1,037,275
Richmond	1,037,275	Houston	1,037,275
Dallas	1,037,275

In the size of average of individual national bank deposits Boston thus leads all the large cities of the country with an average of $7,048. New York second with $6,303, and Cleveland third with $5,419.
